SEES SUPER HUMAN IN CHICAGOANS IN A FEW GENERATIONS FROM NOW

By OWEN L. SCOTT (Copyright, 1924, by The Bee)

CHICAGO, July 1.—The typical Chicagoan—if Darwin was right—should be a vastly superior being a few generations hence. For his life is gradually becoming more and more a primitive struggle against the destructive forces of the automobile, guns and moonshine, with the theory of the survival of the fittest finding an apt new application.

The situation is graphically shown by the fact that 235 persons in Chicago have lost their lives thus far in 1924 as a result of automobile accidents, while 137 have been shot to death and 113 died of moonshine poisoning—altogether 565 deaths, not to mention a great many more serious injuries due to these three instruments of destruction.

The death rate has increased at such a rate that most every resident of this teeming metropolis has already formed definite opinions about the kind of creature he will be like to evolve into. This is especially true at the end of a full day of activity, dodging cars and gun fights, and exclaiming cars in what one drinks. The latter duty is now complicated by a warning from the city health department that city drinking water is more than likely contaminated, despite saturation with chlorine. Just what should take the place of water is not told.

At any rate the Chicagoan is certain that nature should give him a good, wiry, springy pair of legs, something like those that adorn the Kangaroo. An alert intellect with room for an intuition that will automatically and unflinchingly warn of danger, a bullet deflecting outer covering, and a non-corroding stomach.

Elevated side walks, giving two stories of shopping frills and providing a crossing above streets, are being urged by the local engineers' society after a comprehensive study, for the downtown district. These would be a move some of the congestion and for complicity in a liquor deal, in the supplies of gun permits issued by justices of the peace. A gun permit scandal has just come to light as an outgrowth of an investigation that showed that some justices were selling gun carrying permits wholesale at $1 a piece. Two justices have been indicted.

And Mayor ever, through Chief of Police Morgan Collins, continues his drive against moonshine. Recently a lieutenant of detectives was indicted for complicity in a liquor deal, in the supplies of gun permits issued by justices of the peace. A gun permit scandal has just come to light as an outgrowth of an investigation that showed that some justices were selling gun carrying permits wholesale at $1 a piece. Two justices have been indicted.

CHINESE REPLY TO RUSSIAN REFUSAL

(By The Associated Press.)

PEKING, June 30.—A reply by the Chinese foreign office to the refusal of the diplomatic representatives of foreign powers in Peking to surrender the Russian territory except on direct application by the Russian government, disputes the right of the diplomats to dictate and contends that the duration of their custody of the Russian territory depends upon China's decision to restore relations with Russia.

The reply, issued today, asserts that the Russian territory, although it is placed under the control of the foreign diplomatic representatives, is still Chinese territory and that the Russian government is not subject to the control of the other powers.

The note declares that following the re-establishment of diplomatic relations between China and Russia, the Chinese government is the natural channel for arranging for turning over the Russian territory to the soviet representatives, arguing that the government is in a better position to know who is the authorized Russian agent and entitled to receive the custody of the Russian territory than the diplomats.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

NEW YORK, July 1.—There has been considerable comment on the fact that the great Democratic gathering here, with every variety of racial idea, has had no unfavorable influence on the markets. I don't see why it should have any influence because most of the effect down there seems to be not to pick a man that will endanger the chances of Mr. Coolidge succeeding himself. The convention balloting is about as interesting as a race between a couple of coal trucks on Broadway.

Hardly a day for the past few weeks but what the question is put "What do you see bullish." You know as a general rule the only time that you can clearly demonstrate that everything is bullish is when it is time to sell out your stocks. In the preliminary stages you must take some things for granted. You have just got to have some faith in the stability and the future of the United States and its industries.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Cables better than day, probably on covering for tomorrow's report. Eastern belt had more rain yesterday; that section is getting too much. The forecast is showers, Carolinas and Georgia; fair elsewhere, possibly showers in West Texas where needed.

There is no particular cotton news this morning and no change of consequence is expected in prices previous to tomorrow's report.

The REFEREE

DOWN

Prices are dropping in nearly every important country except Germany and other places where money has been issued in such amounts that a rise in its buying power is impossible.

Wholesale prices, for instance, have been slipping in America. In England they are falling at a rate of 25 per cent a year and now average only 75 per cent higher than in 1914.

It is a world movement—downward. How far?

POWER

A small loop radio set receives no little actual energy while it is being used. It is 35 years of continuous operation. It would barely expend the energy used by a fly in climbing an inch up a wall. So says a General Electric research man.

This is about the last word in getting out of a minute bit of power. Future man will work similar marvels with other forms of power, especially fuel. We use only a small fraction of the energy stored in coal. The bulk of it goes up the chimney.

SWEET

Cheap sugar for housewives this coming campaign season, predicts Federal Sugar Refining Co. It says the day of the "sugar" is over unless there is a world war. You read how the sugar prices of other commodities will go to the moon. Nothing is impossible—especially prices.

MORE NOISE!

Here is another new one for the jazz orchestras. Its inventor, Senor Miguel Johan, Spanish musician and inventor, calls it the "midget melba." It is made from a pair of "s" and the string is connected with the needle and diaphragm of a phonograph. This gives the notes a singing character.

High Power May Solve Pay Puzzle

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, July 1.—The question, "Who is to pay for broadcasting?" has been asked to answer itself.

The answer may come with the erection of a dozen or so superpower stations, blanketing the country, and gradually forcing the 550-odd stations out of business.

This sudden change in radio is suggested from two sources: The Associated Manufacturers of Electrical Supplies, who at their Atlantic City convention recently proposed the erection of ten giant stations to replace those now broadcasting, and to be paid for by two per cent of the radio receipts.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which announces the completion of a $500-watt apparatus for broadcasting.

Law and Protest. Against this definite trend toward limited super-power broadcasting stand two objections.

One is the present law which limits Class B broadcasters to between 500 and 1000 watts. Only on special permit have broadcasters been permitted to transmit on more than one mental purpose. The actual perfection of larger apparatus by the biggest company in the field, however, is an almost certain sign of a change in the limitations.

The other big objection to super-power transmission, for the present, is an increased opposition to the scheme from various interested sources, headed by the American Radio Association.

Hard to Escape. While it is stated that such a broadcasting system would not interfere with local stations which take care of local needs, says Alfred M. Caddell, secretary of the association, "experience has shown that unless exceptionally selective receivers are used, it is impossible to tune out stations using a carrier wave of high power."

The radio business has been built largely on the thrill of getting distance, and if this thrill (and therefore other stations) is destroyed by blanketing the country steadily with high power, it might lead to serious consequences in the radio world.

According to Pierre Boucheron of the Radio Corporation of America, however, we have too many broadcasting stations. Cutting them down to 100 high power broadcasters would be not only more efficacious but more economical, he adds.

Only the more wealthy and profitable firms would be able to take up broadcasting of the super-power variety. For the cost of an installation is figured between $40,000 and $50,000, and its operation would be much higher than the Class B 500-watt stations of today.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, July 1.—Stock prices moved irregularly higher at the opening of today's market with a number of industrial specialties touching new 1924 peak prices including American Radiator, International Telephone and Leggett and Myers. Dupont advanced a point. Woolworth fell back 2 points on profit taking.

Standard Industrials and rails showed only minor changes in the early dealings, speculative interest being centered on the specialties. Foreign exchange opened irregular, French francs recording an overnight drop of 12 points at 5.18 cents.
